

It States Clearly On Page 327 Of My Little Red Book: Workers Control The Factories.
Death To The Capitalistic State.
And Absolutely No Italian Food Of Any Kind. Ever.

—Mao Tse-tung

He inherited centuries of anger at Marco Polo over the whole "spaghetti-thing."
And his "Bamboo Curtain" policy only exasperated the rift:
No pizza delivery in, no Chinese take out.
Meanwhile, the eternal meal time argument —Italian or Chinese?—
raged on around the world.
Until Ciao Mein.

C I A O M E I N

Italian and Chinese cuisine on the same menu, in the same restaurant.

Every day.

Located at the Hyatt Regency Waikiki.

Call 923-CIAO for reservations.

I Will Bring The Ethiopians To Their Knees.
I Will Make The Trains Run On Time.
But I Will Never, Ever Go Out For Chinese.

—Benito Mussolini

Oh, he was going to do so much, this one.
Restore the Pax Romana.
Squelch organized crime.
Solve economic woes endemic in his time...
Yet, he couldn't solve the eternal argument plaguing millions everyday, "what do we eat: Italian or Chinese?"
Fortunately, we have.
It's Ciao Mein.

C I A O M E I N

Italian and Chinese cuisine on the same menu, in the same restaurant.

Every day.

Located at the Hyatt Regency Waikiki.

Call 923-CIAO for reservations.