

Your girlfriend
doesn't get it.
But then she doesn't get
the fart scene
in Blazing Saddles
either.

[Fig. 1] Too much chrome for the Amish.

We've all heard it, "I'm just not that into cars." Dumbfounding, isn't it? This is America. Home of the drive-in burger, the drive-in theater, and in some states, the drive-in liquor store. Except for the Amish, how does anyone not get it? And if your girlfriend really doesn't laugh at the line "How 'bout some more beans, Mr. Taggart?" dump her.

Blazing Saddles is the property of Warner Bros. No endorsement is implied (or even likely).

If God
had meant
man to fly,
he wouldn't
have invented
the five speed.

[Fig. 1] Another wondrous thing.

In the beginning, cars had as many gears as the Yankees had basemen. But the Lord had built mountains, canyons and wondrous other things for roads to twist around. And man couldn't fully appreciate them with a three speed. Then one day he looked down at his fingers and thought, "One-two-three-four-five." And it was good.

If we had better
public transportation,
we'd drive less.

What's the point of that?

[Fig. 1] Definitely not mass transit. But who cares?

Henry Ford never wanted America to take the bus. There were never any trains on Route 66. And even if you want to, you can't ride the subway down PCH. But if we did, do you think insurance rates would go down? Would they cut our registration fees? That'll be the day.

The guy
who said
you can't buy love,
obviously hasn't seen
what's on page 58.

Hey, it's a great song. But get this, one of the guys who wrote it plunked down more than a few thousand pounds sterling on a psychedelic Bentley. Imagine that. But don't expect us to call him a hypocrite. Because when we look at page 58, we know just how he felt.
